Record Supplement for December, 1949

No. 12

THE GRAMOPHONE SHOP sends Season's Greetings to its patrons and subscribers. In this; our annual holiday RECORD SUPPLEMENT, you will find many important record listings which we hope may be of aid in solving your gift problems. As is our usual custom, we have expanded this issue to include a resumé of the years great record publications, a relisting of a number of out-of-the-way discs that you may have missed, and a special selection of Long-Playing, Diction, Children's and Christmas recordings.

We suggest that orders be mailed in as early as possible. This will not only facilitate Christmas deliveries, but will assure your choice of many items still in short supply. It is wise, in any case, to indicate a second and third choice on the order blanks provided. But we repeat, order early, and avoid those embarrassing gift delays.

Bartok: Concerto No. 2 for Piano and Orchestra (1½ sides) & Sonata for Piano (1926) (½ side). Andor Foldes (piano) with Lamoureux Orchestra conducted by Eugene Bigot. 12" LP record No. VOX-PLP6620; price, $5.95. (Not as yet released at 78 RPM).

Just as the Bartok Third Piano Concerto might be said to have some romantic tendencies, so the Second may be likened in part to the classicism of Bach. The opening Allegro in particular has a bustle and joggy rhythmic insistence as well as firmly built counterpoint which bring to mind the concertos of Bach. Like many of Bartok's works, the Hungarian folk influence is apparent here, although it never descends to mere nationalism. For the most part, the piano is used percussively, while the orchestra blazes with brilliant colors. This work should find a wide audience among those who have accepted the Third Concerto, the Concerto for Orchestra or the Violin Concerto. There are three movements: Allegro; Adagio; Allegro molto.

The Second Piano Sonata, composed about four years earlier, is somewhat more difficult to grasp. Extreme compression of form and very vital rhythmic energy dominate the two outer movements, while the slow movement is a desolately lonely song. The finale, a rondo is a series of variations in which the Hungarian element is very strong. While most people will find much enjoyment in the concerto, many are likely to feel that the sonata is forceful but rather uncompromising music.

Both performances are excellent. Foldes obviously possesses a strong sympathy for the Bartok idiom, for he manages the solo piano work with knowing authority. The recording is clear, bright and resonant.

Beethoven: An die ferne Geliebte, Op. 98 — Song Cycle. Heinrich Schlusnus (baritone) and Sebastian Peschko (piano). Two 12" imported records in DG-DGS25; price complete with album $6.30. (Manual only).

In many ways, "An die ferne Geliebte" is the first true song cycle — the forerunner of the cycles of Schubert and Schumann. A comparatively late work, it is not philosophical music in the sense that most of the other later works are. Rather, it is one of the first completely romantic works of the nineteenth century. Both the poetry and the music are as romantic as any of the works by the great lieder composers who followed Beethoven. The use of a recurring theme, so characteristic of the Schumann cycles, is employed in this work, as is the romantic concept of varying the accompaniment in different verses to emphasize the particular meaning of the text. The six songs are entitled: Auf dem Hügel sitz' ich; Wo die Berge so blau; Leichte Segler in den Höhen; Diese Wolken in den Höhen; Es kehret der Maien; Minn sie hin denn, diese Lieder.

In this cycle, Schlusnus displays those remarkable qualities which have made him one of the great lieder singers of our time. His voice has lost little of its beauty and his interpretation is one of the finest. His singing has both restraint and subtlety — two qualities seldom found at the same time. Particular mention should be made of the sensitive, beautifully played accompaniments by Sebastian Peschko. The recording is excellent in every respect.

Brahms: Symphony No. 1 in C minor, Op. 68. Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam, conducted by Herbert von Karajan. Six 12" imported records in DG-DGS24; price complete with album $16.80. (Automatic only).

Herbert von Karajan's performance of the Brahms' First Symphony is one which reflects care and fine thought. The conception is broad and somewhat free in matters of tempi. Much of the excitement which Toscanini (VDM-875) brought to the first movement is missing here, however. There will be those who feel that this broader reading is better suited to the music than the more dynamic quality of the Toscanini performance; but whereas most recordings are complete on ten sides, the present version takes twelve. And this despite the fact that a repeat in the third movement is omitted.

The recording is likely to offer some difficulty when played on average equipment. While high in fidelity, there has been some over-cutting of the grooves; in addition, there is occasionally a little difficulty in the tracking.

Chopin: Concerto No. 1 in E minor, Op. 11, for Piano and Orchestra. Alexander Brailowsky (piano) and RCA Victor Symphony Orchestra conducted by William Steinberg. Four 12" records in set VDM-1317; price complete with album $6.00. (Also, V-WDM1317; $4.51.)

Alexander Brailowsky presents a technically brilliant reading of the Chopin first Piano Concerto. There is more fire than perhaps belongs with Chopin — it would be better suited to Liszt — but there is also a fine poetic sense apparent in the lyric sections. Brailowsky's is a big romantic interpretation which, despite the rather steely quality of piano tone, is likely to be preferred to previous recordings. The old Rubinstein performance (VDM-418) was a more poetic reading, but the recording is somewhat dated now. Kilényi's version (CMM-515) had little of the style of its two competitors, and thus the best choice from an overall point of view is the Brailowsky set.

Dvorak: Scherzo Capriccioso, Op. 66. London Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Karl Rankl. Two 12" imported records in set LON-LA101; price complete with album $5.25. (Automatic only) (Not as yet released on LP).

Dvorak's "Scherzo Capriccioso" is a delightful bit of light, gracious music which is more successful, if less pretentious, than many of Dvorak's larger works. There is a wonderful rather Viennese lilt which carries the music along. This is particularly well pointed up in the present performance. Rankl eschews the usual driving pace for one which is more genial, and the results are excellent. Throughout, the playing is superb, and the recording is such that it should offer the frequency-minded listener the gateway to ecstasy. It is to be hoped that London Records will develop the facility of transplanting the wonderful resonant bounce of their 78 RPM discs to their LPs.

Elgar: Cockaigne Overture, Op. 40 ("In London Town"). London Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Eduard van Beinum. Two 12" imported records in LON-LA96; price complete with album $5.25. (Automatic only) (Also, LON-LLP43; $5.95. With "The Wand of Youth" — Suite No. 1.)

Sir Edward Elgar's bright musical picture of London, "Cockaigne" is presented here in a performance which has just the right amount of zest, and in a recording which is realistically clear and full. The 78 RPM set is perfection. The LP version is quite successful, although there are a few very noticeable clicks, particularly at the beginning of the side.

Glinka: Russian and Ludmilla — Overture; Kamarskaya; Valse Fantasia; Jota Aragonesa. Symphony Orchestra of the Academy of Santa Cecilia, Rome, conducted by Jacques Rachmilovitch. Four 12" records in set CC-EDL8044; price complete with album $6.55. (Also, CCLP-8044; $4.85.)

Jacques Rachmilovitch brings a bright, crisp buoyancy to these four works by the first of the Russian nationalist composers, Michael Glinka. Although they have all been previously recorded, a Russian recording of the "Valse Fantasia" is not available. And while there have been fine recordings of the other works, the clear recording and spirited readings recommend this set very highly.

Haydn: Symphony No. 1 in D major, Symphony No. 28 in A major, Symphony No. 13 in D major ("Jupiter"). Vienna Symphony Orchestra conducted by Jonathan Sternberg with Nikolas Huebner (cello) and H. C. Robbins Landon (harpsichord). 12" LP record No. HSLP-1001; price, $5.95. (Not released at 78 RPM).

Haydn: Symphony No. 31 in D major ("Hornsignal"), Symphony No. 34 in D minor. Vienna Symphony Orchestra conducted by Jonathan Sternberg, with Walter Schneiderhan (violin), Nikolas Huebner (cello), Franz Koch (horn), and H. C. Robbins Landon (harpsichord). 12" LP record, No. HSLP-1002; price, $5.95. (Not released at 78 RPM).

Haydn: Symphony No. 44 in E minor ("Trauer"), Symphony No. 48 in C major ("Maria Theresa"). Vienna Symphony Orchestra conducted by Jonathan Sternberg. 12" LP record, No. HSLP-1003; price, $5.95. (Not released at 78 RPM).

Certainly the most important recording event of 1949 is the projected offerings of the Haydn Society. This group was founded in the summer of this year, for the purpose of recording hitherto unavailable works by Haydn. Besides the seven symphonies listed above, the Society plans to release important choral and operatic works which have either been previously unrecorded, or recorded only in incomplete form.

One of the most noteworthy facts concerning this organization is the attention which is paid to details of scholarship and research. Whenever possible, wind instruments of the style used in Haydn's day are employed, while the strings sections are varied in such a way as to offer a good conception of those of the eighteenth century at Haydn's command. The artists who perform on these records are all excellent.

Space does not permit an analysis of the seven symphonies listed above, but it is worth noting that the main theme of the finale of No. 13 in D major is the same as that used by Mozart in the finale of his Symphony No. 41 ("Jupiter"). While the first symphony is fairly slight, it is a pleasant novelty. The other works, however, are of great interest and should have been recorded long ago. Symphonies Nos. 34, 44 and 48 belong in the category of mature Haydn. They contain elements of personal conflict seldom encountered in his later works. These particular symphonies are likely to come as somewhat of a surprise to the average record collector.

The performances all exhibit the finest elements of taste and technical skill and the recordings are among the finest LPs yet released. These sets can be given the highest recommendation.

Holst: St. Paul's Suite, for String Orchestra. Boyd Neel String Orchestra conducted by Boyd Neel. Two 12" imported records in LON-LA99; price complete with album $5.25. (Automatic only).

Gustav Holst is best known for his suite of seven tone poems, "The Planets". While this work has qualities which may be called English, it is more European in concept and technique, than English. In the "St. Paul's Suite" however, Holst goes back to the typically English dance suite of the sixteenth century. The mood and technique are modern, but the sections are grounded in the earlier form and general style. In the final section, he makes free use of two English folk songs — Dargason and Greensleeves. The sections are: Jig; Ostinato; Intermezzo; Finale.

The Boyd Neel String Orchestra is one of the finest string groups in the world. Their recordings, always valued by collectors, have encompassed nearly all of the important works for string orchestra. Among these was an earlier recording of the present work. The new performance is superb in every respect, while the recording has a life-like sheen which is particularly fine. Highly recommended.

Milhaud: L'Homme et son Désir — Ballet. Ensemble Roger Désormières conducted by Darius Milhaud. Two 12" imported records in EDITION DE CHAMPROSAY-CHAI; price complete with folder $8.50. (Automatic only).

While an attaché of the French Legation in Rio de Janeiro from 1917 to 1919, Darius Milhaud made the acquaintance of the poet, Paul Claudel, who was also in Brazil on a diplomatic mission. The meeting proved to be a fortunate one, for Claudel provided the libretti for many of Milhaud's most important dramatic works. It was during this period that the present work was composed. The poem seeks to evoke the strange sounds of the forest in the early evening, those sounds which represent to man something which is half remembered and half dreamed.

Milhaud's musical representation of the Claudel poem was composed for the unusual combination of a vocal quartet, twelve instrumental soloists and fifteen percussion instruments. Basically, it stems from the primitive movement in music, prevalent during the early twenties — a movement which saw the composition of Stravinsky's "Le Sacre du Printemps", Prokofiev's "Scythian Suite" and Milhaud's "La Création du Monde". But whereas "La Création du Monde" is based largely on African rhythms, "L'Homme et son Désir" is obviously Brazilian in spirit. And where the former work created its effect by its brutal force, the latter achieves its effects by subtler means. It is altogether fascinating music and should prove of great interest to many collectors.

The performance is under the direction of the composer and hence, may be considered authoritative. The imported French recording is excellent. This recording was awarded the Grand Prix du Disque for 1949.

Mozart: Symphony No. 25 in G minor, K. 183.

London Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Sergei Celibidache. Three 12" imported records in LON-LA97; price complete with album $7.35. (Automatic only).

After the vast number of symphonies composed in minor keys during the nineteenth century, it is amazing to realize that of Mozart's forty-one symphonies, only two are in minor keys — and both in the particular key of G minor. The more popular of the two, No. 40, is a product of Mozart's maturity, while the present work was composed when he was only 17. If the later work may be described as reflecting something of the resignation of the mature Mozart, the Symphony No. 25 reflects the restless conflicts of youth. Not only is it a more individual work than the earlier symphonies, but it contains certain clues to the later Mozart not found in the works which immediately follow it. The four movements are: Allegro con brio; Andante; Minuetto and Trio; Allegro.

In general, this is a very fine performance. The phrasing is smooth, the balance excellent, and the general conception vital, if a little romantic. The Andante should have been taken a shade faster, but it is not a serious defect. Certainly this is a better performance than the hurried reading which Barbirolli recorded (CMX-217). The recording, another of the splendid London 78 RPM issues, is faultless.

Puccini: Madama Butterfly — Complete recording. Metropolitan Opera Association soloists, Chorus & Orchestra conducted by Max Rudolf. Sixteen 12" records (32 sides) in set CMOP-32, price complete with two albums $21.80. (Also three 12" LP records in set CLP-SL4 [automatic CLP-SL104], $14.55.)

The cast of this new recording is as follows:

Madama Butterfly Eleanor Steber (S)
 Lt. B. F. Pinkerton.....Richard Tucker (T)
 Sharpless Giuseppe Valdengo (B)
 Suzuki Jean Madeira (MS)
 Goro Alessio de Paolis (T)
 Yamadori George Chekanovsky (B)
 The Bonze Melchior Luise (Bs)
 Kate Pinkerton Thelma Votipka (MS)
 Imperial Commissioner John Baker (Bs)

Received too late for review. To be reviewed in a forthcoming issue.

Reger: Eine Ballettsuite, Op. 130. Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam conducted by Eduard van Beinum. Three 12" imported records in DG-DGS18; price complete with album $8.93. (Automatic only).

As more and more of the music of Max Reger is recorded, it becomes increasingly apparent that his reputation of being merely a dull pedant is nothing but a myth. This little "Ballet Suite" contains some of the most delightful listening to come along in some time. The touch is light, the orchestration, colorful, and the form, transparent. Although this is the first recording of the suite as a whole, the "Valse d'amour" is known to record collectors through the arrangement for two pianos performed by Whittemore and Lowe (V-10-1041). The sections of the suite are: Entrée; Colombine; Harlequin; Pierrot und Pierrette; Valse d'amour; Finale.

The Concertgebouw Orchestra proves that they can play light music with deftness and grace. Both performance and recording are all that one could wish.

Respighi: Concerto Gregoriano, for Violin and Orchestra. Paul Richartz (violin) with the Orchestra of the City of Berlin conducted by Robert Heger. Four 12" imported records (7 sides) in DG-DGS19; price complete with album $11.55. (Automatic only).

From the title of this work, "Concerto Gregoriano", one might be led to think that Respighi had attempted to recreate the spirit of Gregorian music in terms of the present times, as he has succeeded in doing in his transcriptions of seventeenth century keyboard works. This, however, is not the case. The Gregorian idiom is used merely as a color effect in a score which is basically impressionistic. The violin writing is most effective, and while it exploits the technical aspects of the instrument, it too performs its function in the total color scheme. Although there are the three usual movements (Andante tranquillo — Allegro molto moderato; Andante espressivo; Finale (Allalujah)), the work is largely rhapsodic in character. It dates from 1922, two years earlier than "The Pines of Rome".

Paul Richartz, apparently new to records, is an excellent violinist who copes with the technical and interpretive demands of this concerto without apparent effort. Heger's orchestral support is nicely proportioned throughout and the recording is one of the finest of the Deutsche Grammophon releases.

Stamitz: Symphony in E flat major, Op. 4, No. 6. City of Berlin Orchestra conducted by Walther Gmeindl. Three 12" imported records (5 sides) in DG-DGS20; price complete with album $8.93. (Automatic only).

Johann Stamitz (1717-1757) is best remembered today as one of the important pioneers in the development of the symphonic form and as a leading figure of the Mannheim school. His innovations, particularly in regard to sonata form, were necessary steps which led to the symphony as developed by Haydn and Mozart. The use of two subjects, the addition of the development section, quick changes in expression, and the introduction of new, bold harmonies were all trademarks of the Stamitz style.

The Symphony in E flat major, the only work of Stamitz to be recorded, is in four movements: Allegro maestoso; Adagio; Menuett; Presto. In general, this is an excellent performance. The finale is taken at a tempo which is not really a presto, and there are points which might have been handled with a lighter touch, but for the most part, the music has been well served, both in performance and recording.

Strauss: Ein Heldenleben, Op. 40. Royal Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham. Five 12" records in set VDM-1321; price complete with album $7.25. (Also, V-WDM 1321; $5.51.)

Sir Thomas Beecham's warm, broad reading of this Strauss tone poem was originally reviewed from the imported pressings in the July, 1948 issue of the RECORD SUPPLEMENT; now available on domestic surfaces. At that time, it was said, in part: "Sir Thomas Beecham is accorded most luxurious treatment by the English engineers and his performance comes through with a warmth which when added to that intrinsic to the work itself, reaches the boiling point of sensuousity. The fastidious devotee of Strauss' music will be fully satisfied with the new recording by Sir Thomas."

Strauss: Tod und Verklärung, Op. 24. Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Victor de Sabata. Three 12" imported records in DG-DGS23; price complete with album $8.93. (Automatic only).

This is without a doubt the finest performance of this tone poem on records. The three Stokowski versions (VDM-1006; CMM-492; VDM-217) were exaggerated and overly lush, while the Ormandy set (CMM-613) had many of the same faults. Without forsaking any of the dramatic intensity or romantic fervor of the score, de Sabata presents a reading which has conviction and real style. The playing by the Berlin Philharmonic and the recording by Deutsche Grammophon are both excellent. Highly recommended.

Stravinsky: Orpheus—Ballet in Three Scenes. RCA Victor Symphony Orchestra conducted by Igor Stravinsky. Four 12" records in VDM-1320; price complete with album $6.00.

Stravinsky's ballet, "Orpheus" was commissioned by Lincoln Kirstein's Ballet Society in 1946. The score was composed in Hollywood in 1947 and presented for the first time at New York City Center in April, 1948 with choreography by Balanchine. While neo-classic in subject matter, the general qualities of this music take in many of the elements of Stravinsky's earlier style. The orchestra, though not of the proportions required by "La Sacre", is nevertheless one in which individual color shadings are of the utmost importance. The color is subtler than in the earlier works, and the feeling for form is perhaps a little more concrete. The music sounds convincing away from the stage, and should certainly be acquired by all Stravinsky devotees.

The performance, conducted by the composer, is clear, nicely balanced and well played, while the recording is one of the finest of recent Victor offerings.

Tchaikovsky: Symphony No. 4 in F minor, Op. 36 (9 sides) & Serenade in C major, Op. 48 — Waltz (1 side). Boston Symphony Orchestra conducted by Serge Koussevitzky. Five 12" records in set VDM-1318; price complete with album $7.25. (Also, V-WDM1318; $5.51.)

Tchaikovsky: Symphony No. 4 in F minor, Op. 36. L'Orchestre de la Société des Concerts du Conservatoire de Paris, conducted by Erich Kleiber. Five 12" imported records in set LON-LA104; price complete with album $11.55. (Automatic only) (Also, LON-LLP2; $5.95.)

This symphony has had more exaggerated performances than almost any other work of the Romantic period. For some unknown reason, conductors delight in pulling and pawing in an attempt to "interpret" a work which needs no interpretation other than strict adherence to the markings of the score. Mitropoulos (CMM-468) takes the finale at such a furious clip that the musicians have difficulty in playing all the notes, while Stokowski (VDM-880) superimposes so many changes in tempo and adds so many uncalled-for crescendos and accelerandos that the entire work is thrown completely out of focus.

Here are two fine performances of the "Fourth". Kleiber's reading is one of the most faithful in keeping close to the indications of the score, and yet manages to be very exciting. Koussevitzky is a little more inclined to take liberties, particularly in the third movement when the Scherzo is taken at a very rapid tempo, but he is also a little more sensitive to individual nuances than Kleiber. As a performance, the Kleiber version is probably the most satisfying.

In regard to recording, the Victor offering is quite fine, with the exception of the finale where the cymbals have been placed so prominently as to obscure the rest of the orchestra. The London recording, however, is another of those superlative examples of the best modern recording — at least in the 78 RPM version. It is a different story with the LP disc, though. Most LPs that have been released recently show a marked improvement over their 78 RPM counterparts. But in transferring frr recordings to LP, much of the concert hall plushness is lost, and the result at best, is likely to be not much better than any other fine LP. In the present instance, however, there are evidences of hasty dubbing, for two measures are clipped from one side, while pauses between other sides are clearly discernible. It is also to be hoped that London will remedy the very noticeable clicks which spot the surfaces of their first LP releases. If the LP version cannot be recommended as yet, the 78 RPM set may be recommended as one of the best available performances, and as the finest recording.

Victoria: Motets. Marcel Couraud Vocal Ensemble. Four 12" imported records in set DISCO-PHILES FRANCAIS-A26; price complete with folder $10.00. (Manual only).

Contents: Vidi speciosam; Sancta Maria; O regem coeli; Vere linguos; Vadam et circuibo.

This splendid set arrived too late for inclusion in the December issue. To be reviewed in a later issue of the RECORD SUPPLEMENT.

Vivaldi: Concerto Grosso in A minor, Op. 3, No. 8, for Two Violins and String Orchestra. Leipzig Gewandhaus Chamber Orchestra conducted by Paul Schmitz. Two 12" imported records (3 sides) in DG-DGS21; price complete with album $6.30. (Manual only).

Here is a splendid recording which may be given unstinted praise. First of all, the music is among the most enduring of the Vivaldi concerti. Seldom performed in its original version, it is most familiar to listeners in the transcription which Bach made for organ (Peters Vol. VIII, No. 2). The two outer movements are vigorous display passages in which the two violins are placed in opposition to the orchestra. The slow movement, a beautiful dialogue for the two soloists, is one of Vivaldi's finest inspirations.

If the performance lacks the glib virtuosity, too frequently considered the sign of a fine performance, it does possess true musical merit. Both soloists and orchestra are very fine. This clear, beautifully proportioned recording should be a splendid addition to anyone's library.

A pre-war Telefunken recording is not available for comparison. However, that version employs a different unidentified movement for the finale.

Wagenseil: Symphony in D major. City of Berlin Orchestra conducted by Walther Gmeindl. Two 12" imported records (3 sides) in set DG-DGS 22; price complete with album $6.30. (Manual only).

Little is known of the life of Georg Christoph Wagenseil (1715-77). He spent most of his time in the service of various royal courts, composed great quantities of music and suffered in his later years from sciatica. His harpsichord pieces found great favor among both professionals and amateurs. The Symphony in D major is a rather typical eighteenth century work, modeled to a degree after the French school. Its three brief movements are: Allegro; Andante; Menuett. Both performance and recording are excellent.

Wagner: Siegfried — Act 3, Scene 3. Eileen Farrell (soprano) and Set Svanholm (tenor) with the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Erich Leinsdorf. Five 12" records in set VDM-1319; price complete with album $7.25.

This, the final scene from Wagner's music drama, "Siegfried", is recorded here in complete form for the first time. And for the most part, it is an amazingly fine presentation. If the Rochester Philharmonic is not one of this country's virtuoso orchestras, it gives a creditable account of itself on these discs. Set Svanholm is a satisfactory, if not inspired Siegfried, but Eileen Farrell proves herself to be one of our top flight Wagnerian sopranos. The voice is rich and beautiful and her musicianship is excellent. In addition, she commands a subtler expressive sense than many sopranos whose popular reputation is greater. The Victor recording is quite satisfactory.

Collections

Selected Arias. Claudia Muzio (soprano in Italian & French) with Orchestra. 12" LP record ESO-TERIC-LP500, $5.95.

Contents: Verdi: I Lombardi — Se vano e il pregare; Catalan: Loreley — Dove son; Massenet: Herodiade — Egli e bel como il ciel; Verdi: I Vespri Siciliani — Merce, diletti amiche; Handel: Rinaldo — Lascia ch'io pianga; Tchaikovsky: Eugene Onegin — Se forse l'angelo fedele (Tatiana's Letter Scene); Meyerbeer: L'Africana — Figlio del sol; Bizet: Carmen — Micaela's Aria.

This interesting collection of arias has been rerecorded from some of Muzio's rare hill-and-dale records made before electric recording. The voice emerges in all of its glory in this long-playing record. The orchestral accompaniments are weak, but those who collect acoustic records will not be surprised at the lifelike quality of the voice. The surface noise is not obtrusive. This record is issued in a limited edition.

Hymns. Mormon Tabernacle Choir of Salt Lake City, conducted by J. Spencer Cornwall, with Frank Asper (organ). Four 12" records in CMM-861; price complete with album $6.00. (Also, CLP-ML2077; $3.85.)

Contents: Come, Come Ye Saints; O My Father; Abide with Me; Guide Us, O Thou Great Jehovah; Praise to the Lord; Faith of Our Fathers; The Lord's Prayer; O Worship the King; A Mighty Fortress; O God, Our Help in Ages Past; Now Thank We All Our God; Lift Thine Eyes.

A fine collection of twelve popular hymns, nicely sung by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir. The recording is very satisfactory.

Christmas Music

Christmas Carols by Celebrity Quartette. Isobel Baillie (soprano), Gladys Ripley (contralto), John McHugh (tenor), and Harold Williams (bass-baritone), with Herbert Dawson (organ). Three 10" records in CMM-857; price complete with album $3.94. (Also, CLP-ML4231; $4.85. With, Carols by Mount Holyoke College Glee Club.)

Contents: O Come All Ye Faithful; Hark, the Herald Angels Sing; Away in a Manger; The First Nowell; Christians, Awake!; The Coventry Carol.

Christmas Carols. Mount Holyoke College Glee Club, conducted by Ruth Douglass. Three 12" records in CMM-856; price complete with album $4.75. (Also, CLP-ML4231; $4.85. With, Christmas Carols by Celebrity Quartette.)

Contents: Sing We Nöel; Yuletide is Here; In Dulci Jubilo; Holy Day Holly; Wake, Nightingale; Touro-Louro-Louro; O'er Her Child; Jacques, Come Here; Carol of the Birds; Carol of the Nuns of Saint Mary; Patapan.

Two fine sets of Christmas Carols are presented here. The first contains six of the most popular Carols, well sung by vocal quartet with organ accompaniment. The second set is of more interest, since it contains some of the lesser-known Carols. All are nicely sung by the Girls Glee Club of Mount Holyoke College. Both sets are also available together on one 12" LP disc.

Gould: Serenade of Carols for Small Orchestra (4 sides) & Suite of Christmas Hymns (4 sides). Morton Gould and his Orchestra. Four 12" records in CMM-848; price complete with album $6.00. (Also CLP-ML2065; $3.85.)

The Serenade for Small Orchestra contains the following Carols: Kings of Orient; The Babe of Bethlehem; Rocking; Greensleeves; Boar's Head Carol; Patapan; Carol of Service; Come, Love We God; Coventry Carol; The Holly and the Ivy; Irish Carol; God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen; Wassail Song; My Dancing Day.

The Suite contains the following Christmas Hymns: The First Nowell; Silent Night; O Little Town of Bethlehem; Away in a Manger; It Came Upon a Midnight Clear; Adeste Fideles.

Morton Gould has composed two suites of Carols and Hymns for Orchestra, somewhat in the style of Milhaud and Vaughan Williams — although the orchestration is predominately his own. While the serious collector of Carols will probably give this set a wide berth, it should have a large appeal among many listeners. Mr. Gould has used the Carols as a point of departure, without however, straying too far from the originals. The recording is excellent.

Prelude to Pearl Harbor

Prelude to Pearl Harbor. Kent Stevenson (narrator). Written and produced by Dick O'Connor. Four 12" LP records in LON-LLPAI; price complete with album $24.85. (Automatic only) (Not as yet released at 78 RPM).

A most comprehensive documentary presentation of those events which led up to the invasion of Pearl Harbor. Among the voices heard in the course of this almost four hour LP presentation are: Hitler, Benes, Chamberlain, Daladier, Mussolini, Roosevelt, Attlee, Bevin, Lord Beaverbrook, Queen Wilhelmina, de Gaulle, and many others. "Prelude to Pearl Harbor" is based upon the coverage of the war by the B.B.C. The extent of this recording can be seen by the list of events covered on each record side:

- Side 1: Crisis 1938; Prelude to War 1939.
- Side 2: Poland; The Battle of the River Plate; The Boarding of the Altmarm.
- Side 3: Finland; Norway and Denmark.
- Side 4: Holland; Belgium; Luxembourg; Dunkirk.
- Side 5: The Fall of Paris; The Fall of France.
- Side 6: Air Battle over the English Channel; The Battle of Britain.
- Side 7: The Italian Adventure in Greece and Africa. The Battle for Russia, 1941.
- Side 8: Iraq; Syria; Iran; The First Russian Winter, 1941; British Victory in Africa; Lend Lease in Action; Prelude to Pearl Harbor.

There are four boxed corners on this page, but they contain five cornerstones of great art. Each of them will fill an important gap in your record collection. All of them owe their existence and availability here in the United States to the desire of The Gramophone Shop to offer its patrons unexplored areas of musical experience performed with uncompromising artistry and placed on records without any concession to mass production. The Purcell Suites were recorded here in the United States and are pressed on matchless vinylite surfaces. All of the others were made by His Master's Voice (England) and can boast the quality of sound universally associated with that company.

In addition to the sets listed on the preceding pages, The Gramophone Shop plans to release two additional albums during the forthcoming year.

Songs of Wagner, Gluck & Franz, Lorri Lail (mezzo-soprano, in German and French) with Gerald Moore (piano) and Millicent Silver (harpsichord). Six 10" imported records in set GSC-4; price complete with album and song texts (with translations) $13.00.
